Sunday, November 13th, 2011

Dear Parents,

I am sure that all of you had a nice happy Eid holiday but I hope that students having official external examinations in May /June 2012 have also used that time to study.

We are holding parent/teacher conferences on the following days: 14, 15 of November and for Early Years and SEN; 15 and 16 of November for Primary and Secondary. Parents who have their child/ren in Early Years and in Primary should take appointments with the class teacher through the home work diary. Parents who have their child /ren in Secondary do not need to take appointment to meet subject teachers.

We feel it is important for the school community to know well our School Guiding Statement which prepare all our students to be responsible global members of our Human Family and to take care of our Earth Home .

Tolerance Day is a tradition at our school as we believe in the respect of the universal values of respect, tolerance, justice, trust, cooperation and solidarity. Students throughout the school will focus this week on the virtues of tolerance and respect for each other, regardless of gender, nationality, race, religion and background.

The observance this year of the 11th of November took place during our holiday but it is important to know that this day of remembrance coincides with the cease fire of the First World War on the 11 November 1914 has since honoured the memories of the ones who gave their life for the freedom of others, and, by extension, for all the people who have died in all conflicts which sadly are taking place today. I would like to thank students and parents who participated in the Poppy Appeal Campaign launched by the British Embassy in Kuwait in association with Remembrance Day.

Let me take this opportunity to thank you all once again for your support and cooperation,

Yours Sincerely,

Chantal Al Gharabally
